

A DIGITAL PR PLAN FOR YOUR WEB3 PROJECT

In Web3, hype is cheap. Credibility compounds.

Organic, earned media for Web3 projects - global and APAC, executed personally.

Why digital PR, why now.

01

Narratives move markets

DePIN, RWA, AI agents: categories get hot, and coverage decides which projects get to define them.

02

Readers are skeptical by default

After every rug and hack, people discount what you say about yourself. Earned editorial is the strongest trust signal left.

03

Everyone diligences in public

VCs, exchanges, communities and AI answers all check what's written about you and your founders. Coverage is the first data room.

Most crypto companies think PR = announcements. The best brands build narratives so strong that every announcement becomes news.

Who you'd be working with.

Why founders work with me.

04 / 13

Incentive 01

I lead point on strategy and execution myself.

The person you brief writes the narrative, drafts the pitch, manages the relationship with the journalist and follows up punctually.

Senior execution + market access, in one person. That's the crux.

Incentive 02

Direct media relationships in every regional market.

Korea, Japan, Greater China, Vietnam, India: the markets that move tokens. I spent years building these relationships, so you get one tight strategy instead of an agency per market, and the execution stays result-oriented.

Earned PR vs. paid press release.

ORGANIC · EARNED COVERAGE

Hard · and worth it

An editor has to choose your story. That's the point.

- Real editorial, in the journalist's own voice
- Very high credibility & brand authority
- Compounds, one story leads to the next
- The coverage exchanges, VCs and AI models trust
- Survives as a permanent, linkable proof point

PAID PRESS RELEASE

Easy · guaranteed · fast

You pay, the wire syndicates it. And it reads that way.

- Live within a week
- Tagged "sponsored", "press release" or syndicated wire copy
- Readers, journalists and AI models don't necessarily cite it
- Low brand authority and credibility

I work organic-first and craft paid media strategies if you insist on fast-tracking coverage.

Investors fund founders they've already heard of.

Pre-raise

Build the public track record

Expert commentary, podcasts and op-eds put your thinking on record before the data room opens. Warm intros get warmer.

The raise

Your biggest press window

A funding or TGE announcement is planned like a launch: exclusive, embargo, tiered outreach.

Post-raise

Keep the story alive

Vision op-eds, milestone and partnership press keeps the momentum going for your stakeholders, including potential partners, investors and customers.

If a raise, a listing or a TGE is anywhere on your roadmap, founder profiling is the highest-leverage PR you can do.

An $11M raise, turned into one coordinated wave.

CEO

Standalone Cointelegraph profile, plus the Milk Road podcast

Step 01 · Narrative

The angle before the number

An $11M raise is a number. “Institutional RWA tokenization, with a Middle East angle” is a story. We built the angle first.

Step 02 · The wave

Exclusive, then embargo

CoinDesk took the exclusive. Follow-ons landed the same day: CryptoDaily, CryptoPotato and more.

Step 03 · Momentum

The raise becomes a platform

The CEO's “Everything tokenized” Cointelegraph profile and the Milk Road podcast kept the story running for weeks.

The pattern repeats.

RARI Foundation

NFT infrastructure

RARI Chain mainnet on Arbitrum: 11 simultaneous tier-1 placements with coordinated APAC translations.

Fluence

DePIN compute

Made DePIN a beat tier-1 reporters cover: CoinDesk opinion, Cointelegraph's Hashing It Out podcast, Benzinga exclusive, e27.

Web3Auth

Wallet infrastructure

Drove the Google Cloud × Firebase story into Blockworks, CoinDesk, Yahoo Finance and Benzinga, with localised FR, IT and ES placements.

Different stories, same engine: narrative, founder voice, features, milestones covered on their own.

The APAC wave most agencies can't reach.
